On 9th December, 2017 college organised a programme to observe birth and death anniversary which was on the same day of the renounced activist Rokeya Sakhawat Hossain. The Officer-In-Charge delivered a speech on Rokeya's dream - "Both men and women should be treated equally as rational beings and women's education could enlighten their inner power." Other speeches of different faculty members made the matter interesting as they established the fact that Rokeya was not only a Bengali writer but also widely regarded as the pioneer of Women's education during the period of British rule in India. At the end of the programme teachers sang Rabindrasangeet to pay their respect to this progressive personality.
