

Call for Papers

Articles are invited from academicians and research scholars for a multidisciplinary and multi-lingual book, with ISBN, titled "Nature: Past and Present" to be published by Government Girls' General Degree College, 7 Mayur Bhanj Road, Kolkata. Articles of approximately 2500 words should be written following the 9th edition of MLA. Articles should include an abstract written in 300 words and a brief bio-note of the author in not more than 150 words. Articles can be written in Arabic, Bengali, English, Persian and Urdu. Complete article with the abstract and bio-note should be mailed to gggdc.journal@gmail.com within November 30, 2023.

Scope:

Nature is an important source of inspiration for writers of literature. Since the days of the Industrial Revolution, man has been taking liberty with nature and causing many disturbances. This has forced Nature to strike back. The fury of Nature is commonly known as climate change. This is a topic that is often discussed. Damage already done is so severe that we are now being forced to take constructive measures and try to restore Nature to its pristine health. The title of the book has ample scope for scholars from different fields of literature, social science and pure science. Articles in Arabic, Bengali, English, Persian and Urdu can focus on the presentation of Nature in literature. However, topics are not restricted to these above-mentioned particular themes and can also include other related topics.